JAMES L. DOLAN

Member of the Board of Directors – Madison Square Garden

Chief Executive Officer – Cablevision Systems Corporation

James L. Dolan serves as chief executive officer of Cablevision Systems Corporation.

Together with Cablevision vice chairman Marc Lustgarten, Mr. Dolan represents Cablevision on the Garden's four-member board, which oversees the management of the Madison Square Garden entities.

Prior to assuming his present post at the nation's sixth largest cable television provider, Mr. Dolan amassed more than two decades of experience in the management of cable systems, cable programming and advertising.

Previously, Mr. Dolan served for three years as chief executive officer of Rainbow Programming Holdings, Inc., (now Rainbow Media Holdings, Inc.) a wholly-owned subsidiary of Cablevision, and a leader in the development of niche programming. At Rainbow, Mr. Dolan oversaw all facets of the business, which today operates multiple entertainment, news and sports networks, reaching many millions of subscribers in the United States and abroad.

Throughout the 1980's, Mr. Dolan was a major force in the creation and management of Rainbow Advertising Sales Corporation, a division of Rainbow and one of the first cable advertising sales companies in the country. The advertising division grew dramatically under his leadership, and today is the nation's leading regional and national spot cable sales organization.

In the early 1980's, as a Cablevision vice president, Mr. Dolan also created and managed WKNR-AM, Cleveland's first all-sports talk/radio station — now one of the city's most popular stations. At the same time, he oversaw the launch of the weekly television magazine Total.

Mr. Dolan began his career with Cablevision in the 1970's in the Plainview, N.Y. cable system.

Mr. Dolan is a member of the board of directors of Cablevision Systems Corporation and serves on its executive committee. He also sits on the board and executive committee of the National Cable Television Association (NCTA) and chairs its Music Licensing Committee. Mr. Dolan is also a member of the board of directors of Hazeldon, New York. In addition, he serves on the Capital Campaign Committee at Friends Academy.

Mr. Lustgarten headed the acquisition team that guided Cablevision's purchase of the Madison Square Garden properties. He is an alternate governor of both the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey League.

Mr. Lustgarten joined Cablevision as general counsel in 1978, and was responsible for the legal operations of all company systems and their growing involvement in program syndication. From 1983 to 1984, he served as vice president of Satellite and Sports Programming Operations, during which time he spearheaded the company's launches of American Movie Classics, Bravo, SportsChannel — the nation's first regional sports network — and News 12 Long Island.

In 1984, Mr. Lustgarten was named president and chief executive officer of Rainbow Programming Holdings, Inc. (now Rainbow Media Holdings, Inc.). DAVID W. CHECKETTS

PRESIDENT AND CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

Since September 20, 1994, when David W. Checketts was named President and Chief Executive Officer of Madison Square Garden, the organization has made strides in providing a vast array of sports and entertainment for millions of people.

In his current role, Checketts oversees all operations of one of the most powerful sports and entertainment companies globally, including the world's most famous arena and its four sports franchises — the Knicks, Rangers, Liberty and CityHawks — along with the nationally recognized MSG Network. In keeping with the Garden's tradition as a sports and entertainment showplace, he has also fostered an expanded commitment to hosting live entertainment, family shows, and a renewal of the great legacy of Garden boxing.

1996-97 proved to be an especially action-packed year for the Garden. Under Checketts' leadership, the Garden debuted two new professional teams — a woman's basketball team competing in the WNBA — the New York Liberty and the CityHawks of the Arena Football League. MSG also hosted the 39th annual Grammy Awards — for the first time ever in an arena, and staged an extended run of "The Wizard of Oz" starring Roseanne as the Wicked Witch of the West. The Garden also introduced Madison Scare Garden, the family-themed interactive Halloween attraction in the Expo Center, staged a third successful year of "A Christmas Carol" (starring Tony Randall and Ben Vereen in 1996), firmly establishing itself as a Christmas holiday tradition in New York.

1998 promises to be equally as exciting. In February, the Garden will host the 48th annual NBA All-Star Game, the first time that the current Madison Square Garden will host the NBA's showcase event, and additional family-themed entertainment shows like a stage-version of the hit movie "Footloose." The Garden has also become responsible for running the Hartford Civic Center, following the relocation of the Rangers' developmental club, named the Hartford Wolf Pack, to Hartford.

Checketts brings to his present position the same clear picture of the New York community that marked his tenure as Knicks President. His dedicated efforts have been geared toward maintaining the Garden and its franchises as part of the very fabric of the city, while expanding the company's horizons with new and trailblazing ventures.

In four full seasons with the Knicks (he was appointed club President on March 1, 1991), Dave brought great leadership and boundless energy to the organization. The addition of Vice President and General Manager Ernie Grunfeld (named President and General Manager on February 23, 1996) formed a powerful front office braintrust that proved to be instrumental in the club's direction.

During the Checketts regime, the Knicks won two Atlantic Division championships (1993 and 1994), made two trips to the Eastern Conference Finals, and emerged as Eastern Conference Champions in 1994, falling to Houston in a thrilling seven-game NBA Finals series. It was Dave's business acumen that helped to bring the Knicks under the salary cap for the first time ever in 1992, allowing for major personnel moves. Checketts' concern for the community and New York City youngsters was also underlined by the club's expanded humanitarian efforts.

Checketts serves as a governor reporting for both the Knicks in the NBA and the Rangers in the NHL and is on the planning committee for the future of the NBA.

Checketts came to the Knicks from the National Basketball Association, where he served as Vice President, Development since September 1990.

During a six year tenure with the Utah Jazz, which began in 1983, Checketts brought the team into prominence as one of the NBA's most efficient and successful organizations. He completed a meteoric rise to President of the Jazz in 1984, just one year following the launch of his professional sports career and at age 28 becoming the youngest chief executive in the NBA. During Checketts' tenure in Utah, the Jazz captured two Midwest Division titles and enjoyed a multi-million dollar economic turnaround. Dave joined the Jazz from the Boston based management consulting firm, Bain and Company.

Checketts earned his undergraduate degree in communications and finance from the University of Utah after attending Brigham Young University, where he made the basketball team as a walk-on candidate. He later earned his MBA from BYU.

Committed to the community, in 1996, Dave served as Chairman for the Jackie Robinson Foundation Awards Dinner; Vice Chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis Dinner of Champions as well as serving on their Board of Directors; Co-Chair of the annual Actor's Fund Dinner; he received the Good Scout Award from the Boy Scouts of America; he served on the YMCA Board of Directors; and he was a Board Member and served on the fundraising committee for the Children's Blood Foundation. In early 1997, he received the first ever Corporate Hero Award from the AHRC (Association for the Help of Retarded Children) at the Thurman Munson Sports Awards Dinner.

Dave and his wife Deb have six children — Spencer (18), Katie (17), Nathaniel (14), Andrew (11), Ben (9), and Elizabeth (4), — and live in Connecticut.

NEW YORK RANGERS

NEIL SMITH

PRESIDENT and GENERAL MANAGER

Born: January 9, 1954
Toronto, Ontario

As he enters his ninth year at the helm of the New York Rangers, Neil Smith's name is now mentioned in the same breath as such legendary Rangers general managers as Lester Patrick and Emile Francis, men whose success and legend Smith has strived to emulate. His first eight years running the club can be placed alongside Patrick's as one of the most successful and memorable periods in team history.

Since taking over the reigns as general manager on July 17, 1989, the Rangers have compiled a record of 309-234-77, ranking fifth among all NHL clubs. New York has captured three division titles, two Presidents' Trophies and one Stanley Cup Championship.

Over the eight year span, the Rangers are tied with Detroit for second among all NHL clubs with 10 playoff series victories, trailing only Pittsburgh and are tied for the second most playoff series played with 16; also trailing Pittsburgh (17). New York also ranks third in playoff game wins with 47, and third in playoff games with 88.

The pinnacle of Smith's success came in 1993-94 when his diligence and persistence to build the Rangers into a Stanley Cup Champion came to fruition on June 14, 1994, when the team captured the fourth Stanley Cup in franchise history. The championship was the culmination of a record setting season in which New York set a club record with 52 wins and 112 points. New York captured their second Presidents' Trophy in three seasons and became the first team since the Presidents' Trophy was established to win it, along with the Conference Championship and Stanley Cup in the same season.

Following the season, Neil was awarded with the Hockey News Executive of the Year Award. Neil was also honored by the New Jersey Sports Writer's Association as their Executive of the Year.

In his first three seasons as general manager, New York finished in first place twice, including the 1991-92 Presidents' Trophy and second place once, marking the best three consecutive finishes in club history. Neil's outstanding accomplishments with the Rangers in 1991-92 were recognized following the season with two tremendous honors.

First, he was named the NHL Executive of the Year by The Sporting News, as voted by NHL general managers and governors, becoming the first Rangers executive to ever capture the award. Then, on June 19, 1992, he was promoted to the position of president and general manager, becoming the ninth president in Rangers history and the first president to also hold the title of general manager.

To ensure that the Rangers always have a successful and entertaining club on the ice as well as a developing group of young players who will enable the club to be successful in the future, Neil has used a combination of intelligent draft picks, shrewd trades and astute free agent signings.

During his tenure as general manager, Smith has made trades for such all-star caliber players as Mike Gartner, Bernie Nicholls, Esa Tikkanen, Steve Larmer, Kevin Lowe, Pat Verbeek, Luc Robitaille, Kevin Stevens, Pat LaFontaine and Ulf Samuelsson. Smith's most successful trade and the top acquisition in franchise history came on October 4, 1991 when he acquired Mark Messier from Edmonton. Neil made perhaps the boldest trades of his career on March 21, 1994 when he acquired Glenn Anderson, Craig MacTavish, Brian Noonan and Stephane Matteau at the trade deadline to help lead the team to the Stanley Cup.

Two of Neil's most successful coups have come on the free agent market. In September of 1991 he signed free agent Adam Graves, whom Neil had scouted and drafted while with the Red Wings. In the summer of 1996, Smith signed one of the greatest players in National Hockey League history, bringing Wayne Gretzky to the Rangers on July 21.

Through the NHL Entry Draft, Neil has added players such as Alexei Kovalev, Niklas Sundstrom and Eric Cairns while also adding to the organization's depth chart with top prospects at every position: goaltender Dan Cloutier; defensemen; Wes Jarvis, Burke Henry, Tomi Karlsson, Mike Martin, Jeff Brown, Alexei Vasiliev, and Ronnie Sundin; and forwards Christian Dube, Daniel Goneau, Johan Lindbom, Vladimir Vorobiev, Marc Savard and Stefan Cherneski.

A native of Toronto Ontario, Smith played junior hockey at Brockville, Ontario, before entering Western Michigan University, where he became an All-American defenseman as a freshman and team captain in his sophomore season. In September of 1991, Neil was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame, the first hockey player ever given the honor.

After being selected by the New York Islanders in the NHL Amateur draft and playing two seasons in the International Hockey League, Neil joined the Islanders scouting department during the '80-81 season. Following two seasons in that capacity, he joined the Detroit Red Wings as director of professional scouting and soon after became director of their entire farm system. Smith was then named director of scouting, and general manager/governor of the Adirondack Red Wings of the AHL, where he won two Calder Cup championships.

Neil is a board member of the Ice Hockey in Harlem program. He served as an assistant general manager for Team Canada in the 1996 World Cup. He lives with his wife, Katia and son, Viktor in New York City.

COLIN CAMPBELL

HEAD COACH

Born: January 28, 1953
London, Ontario

Colin Campbell enters his fourth season as head coach of the Rangers. He was named to the post on August 9, 1994. His career coaching record now stands at 101-84-27. Campbell notched his 100th career victory last season on April 7, 1997 vs. Philadelphia.

Colin begins the 1997-98 campaign in fourth place on the Rangers all-time coaching victories list with 101, while his .540 career winning percentage also places fourth. He ranks seventh on the club all-time in games coached with 212. During the 1997 post-season, Campbell became the first Rangers coach since the legendary, Emile Francis to lead the team to at least the second round of the playoffs in three consecutive seasons. He ranks third on the Rangers all-time playoff games coached list with 36 and in post season victories with 18, trailing only Francis and Lester Patrick in both categories.

Campbell was promoted to his current position after serving in various capacities in the organization over the previous five years, including assistant coach, associate coach and half of the 1992-93 season as head coach of the Rangers American Hockey League affiliate at Binghamton. Colin made his head coaching debut on January 20 vs. Buffalo and earned his first NHL victory on January 21 vs. Montreal.

Campbell, began his coaching career in 1985-86 with the Detroit Red Wings, following his retirement as a player after the 1984-85 season. He worked a total of five seasons as a Red Wings assistant coach, including one season under coach Harry Neale and four seasons under coach Jacques Demers.

The native of London, Ontario, joined the Rangers organization in August of 1990 as an assistant coach to Roger Neilson. He served in that role until January 4, 1993, when he became head coach of the Binghamton Rangers. He guided Binghamton to a record of 29-8-5, helping them set AHL records for wins (57) and points (124) in a single season.

On June 21, 1993, Campbell was promoted to associate coach of New York, helping the Rangers set team records for wins (52) and points in a season (112), while capturing the Presidents' Trophy and the Stanley Cup.

Before joining the coaching ranks, Campbell played 12 seasons of professional hockey as a defensive defenseman. After being drafted by the Pittsburgh Penguins as their third choice, 27th overall, in the second round of the 1973 Amateur Draft, he opted to join the Vancouver Blazers of the World Hockey Association where he was coached by former Rangers Phil Watson and Andy Bathgate.

Following one season in the WHA, he went on to play 11 seasons in the National Hockey League beginning with the Penguins in 1973-74. After two seasons with Pittsburgh, he was dealt to the Colorado Rockies and played there for one year before being dealt back to Pittsburgh.

After two more years in Pittsburgh, he was claimed in the 1979 Expansion Draft by the Edmonton Oilers, where he was teammates with Wayne Gretzky. Following his only season in Edmonton, he was claimed by the Vancouver Canucks in the NHL Waiver draft where he played for two seasons. In 1981-82 he helped the Canucks to the Stanley Cup Finals under coach Roger Neilson, playing in 16 of 17 post-season matches.

Colin signed as a free agent with Detroit in July of 1982 and played for three seasons with the Red Wings before becoming an assistant coach with the club. He played in a total of 636 NHL contests, collecting 25 goals and 103 assists for 128 points along with 1,292 penalty minutes.

"Colie", who is a licensed pilot, owns and operates the Colin Campbell Hockey School in Tillsonburg, Ontario for three weeks each summer. He and his wife Heather reside in Rye, New York with their three children: daughters, Lauren and Courtney and son, Gregory.

DON MALONEY

ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

Born: September 5, 1958
Lindsay, Ontario

One of the Rangers most popular players during his tenure with the club, Don Maloney, returns to the Rangers, beginning his first season with New York after being named Assistant General Manager on July 2, 1997.

Maloney, 38, will work closely with Rangers president and general manager Neil Smith, assisting on player contract negotiations and personnel decisions. In addition, Don will serve as General Manager of New York's American Hockey League affiliate, the Hartford Wolf Pack. Maloney will also work in conjunction with Director of Scouting Martin Madden in running the club's amateur scouting operation.

Always known as a fierce competitor and an extremely hard worker during his playing career, Maloney, played 13 seasons in the National Hockey League. He spent 10 and a half years as a mainstay on left wing for the Rangers, from 1978-79 to 1988-89, before joining the Hartford Whalers and eventually the New York Islanders prior to his retirement on January 17, 1991. Maloney played in a total of 765 regular-season games, accumulating 214 goals and 350 assists for 564 points. In 94 playoff contests, he registered 22 goals and 35 assists for 57 points along with 101 penalty minutes.

Following his retirement, he joined the Islanders as Assistant General Manager under Bill Torrey. After two seasons, he was promoted to General Manager and Vice President of Hockey Operations. He served in that capacity from August 17, 1992 until December 2, 1995.

During his tenure, the Islanders drafted many top prospects and current NHL players; Todd Bertuzzi, Bryan McCabe, Tommy Salo, Darius Kasparaitus, Scott Lachance and Zigmund Palffy.

The native of Lindsay, Ontario was hired by the San Jose Sharks in June of 1996 as their Eastern Professional Scout and spent the '96-97 campaign evaluating talent at various professional levels in the eastern United States and Canada.

During his time with the Rangers, Maloney scored 20 goals or more in his first five full seasons with the Rangers, was selected to play in the NHL All-Star Game on two occasions (1983 and 1984) and was named Most Valuable Player of the 1984 NHL All-Star Game at New Jersey. Maloney helped lead the club to the Stanley Cup Finals in his rookie season, 1979, leading all post season scorers with 13 assists, while setting the record (since broken) for most points by a rookie in the playoffs with 20. Don shares several Rangers player records and holds many significant rankings on the club's all-time lists; placing 10th with 502 points, 12th with 653 games, ninth with 195 goals and 11th with 307 assists.

Maloney scored a goal on his first NHL shot against Boston on February 14, 1979 vs. Gilles Gilbert. One shift later he added his first NHL assist. He holds the record for the fastest three goals by one player in team history, notching the hat trick within a span of 2:30 on February 21, 1981 vs. Washington at Madison Square Garden. Maloney set the team record with nine game-winning goals in one season which was equalled in 1996-97. He is also tied with the most shorthanded goals (five) in one season in 1980-81, and with most assists in one game (five) on January 3, 1987 against Quebec. Maloney ranks second on the Rangers all-time playoff games played list, fourth on the Rangers all-time playoff scoring list with 57 points, is tied for seventh with 22 goals and places fourth with 35 assists.

Maloney was an active participant in the community and was named the Rangers 1984 Crumb Bum Award winner for service to New York youngsters. Don received the Rangers Players' Player Award as voted by his teammates on three occasions (1979-80, 1980-81 and 1986-87), including his first two with the club. Maloney also won a silver medal with Team Canada at the World Championships in Prague.

Don is the younger brother of former Rangers captain and current FOX-TV studio host Dave Maloney. The two played together with the Rangers from 1974-75 to 1984-85. Maloney was originally drafted as New York's second choice, 26th overall, in the 1978 NHL Entry Draft.

THE LEGEND OF 99

Gretzky wanted to wear Howe's # 9 during his junior career with Sault Ste. Marie, but the number was held by Brian Gualatzie and Soo's general manager, Murray MacPherson, would not allow a player to take over a number someone already had ... Gretzky started the season wearing #19 and later switched to #14 ... that season was the year Phil Esposito and Ken Hodge were traded to New York and began wearing numbers 77 and 88 ... MacPherson suggested switching to #99, which Gretzky first rejected, then accepted.

HARTFORD WOLF PACK

As the 1997-98 season begins, the Rangers are excited to begin their new relationship with the Hartford Wolf Pack of the American Hockey League. On June 10, 1997 the Rangers, in conjunction with Madison Square Garden, LP. announced the purchase and relocation of their AHL affiliate the Binghamton Rangers to Harford, Connecticut. The ownership and move to Hartford provides the Rangers with increased control over the organization in a community with a rich hockey tradition and strong fan base.

In an effort to continue the club's unparalleled developmental success in the minor leagues, Rangers President and General Manager Neil Smith looked no further than former Ranger Don Maloney. Maloney was named Assistant General Manager of the Rangers as well a General Manager of the Wolf Pack this past summer. He will be involved in many aspects of the club including, assisting Smith on player transactions, player contracts, as well as, running the day-to-day operations of the Wolf Pack.

To provide front office leadership, Smith appointed Tom Mitchell as Executive Vice-President of Operations for the Wolf Pack. Prior to joining Hartford, Mitchell enjoyed a successful career in the American Hockey League in various roles with Binghamton, where he represented the franchise by serving on the AHL Board of Governors for the last 13 seasons.

The on-ice future of the Wolf Pack became clear on July 31, 1997 when Smith and Maloney named E.J. McGuire as the club's first head coach. McGuire brings a vast knowledge of the game and a wealth of minor and professional coaching experience to Hartford.

The Hartford Wolf Pack will open their 1997-98 inaugural season on October 3 at Providence before returning home to make their Civic Center debut on October 4 vs. Portland. For further information call (860) 246-7825.

A Brief History of The New York Rangers

The Rangers' Official Emblem

Now entering their 72nd season in the National Hockey League, the New York Rangers have thrilled fans with exciting hockey and notable achievements, most recently the club's proudest moment, the dramatic 1993-94 Stanley Cup championship.

Rangers fans have been enjoying another tremendous thrill, watching the NHL's all-time leading scorer and arguably it's best player ever, Wayne Gretzky, wearing number 99 on Broadway, the biggest stage in the world. But success is not new for the Rangers. From the outset, the club was among the best in the NHL.

The National Hockey League granted Madison Square Garden a franchise to operate its own team for the 1926-27 season, following the initial success of the New York Americans, who began play in the Garden for the 1925-26 season and would become the Rangers first arch-rivals. Garden president G.L. "Tex" Rickard chose University of Toronto's Conn Smythe to build his team and Smythe assembled a talented roster, including future Hall of Famers Frank Boucher and Bill Cook, who with Cook's brother Bun formed hockey's top line; Hall of Fame defenseman Ivan "Ching" Johnson, who effectively teamed with Taffy Abel; and second line winger Murray Murdoch, who would become hockey's first "iron man," playing 508 consecutive games. Sportswriters dubbed the team "Tex's Rangers" and that was the origin of the club's name.

Prior to the start of their first season, however, disagreements with the Garden management caused Smythe's exit. On the eve of the club's first season, the task of guiding the Rangers was handed to one of professional hockey's pioneers, Lester Patrick, who grew to be the Big Apple's most visible and quotable hockey man. Patrick directed the Rangers to a first place finish in their opening season (with Bill Cook winning the league scoring title) and, led by Boucher's scoring heroics, their first Stanley Cup in 1927-28. It was the last time an NHL team has won the Cup as quickly as its sophomore campaign. During Game Two of the 1928 Finals against the Montreal Maroons, the 44-year old Patrick substituted for injured goaltender Lorne Chabot in one of hockey's legendary moments.

With hard, clean play and innovative tactics, the Rangers became known as "the classiest team in hockey," going to the Finals four times in six years. Regularly among the leaders in assists, Boucher epitomized the club's style, winning the Lady Byng Trophy so frequently, the league allowed him to keep the original silverware and struck a new award. Bill Cook won a second scoring title in 1932-33 and in April, his overtime goal in Game Four of the Finals gave the Rangers a 1-0 win over Toronto and their second Stanley Cup title. Cecil Dillon's scoring and Andy Aitkenhead's goaltending led the way for Patrick's club.

In their first 16 seasons, the Rangers missed the playoffs only once, and only twice did they fall lower than third place. New York won three regular-season championships in that span, finished second five times and third on six other occasions. The Garden became the place to be on nights the Rangers played, attracting a "dinner-jacket" crowd which often included other sports figures, Broadway entertainers, New York's society elite and City Hall politicians. The Rangers built an empire and New Yorkers loved it.

The Original Rangers gave way to a new group of stars in the late 1930s. Patrick acquired goalie Davey Kerr from the Maroons in 1934 and defenseman Art Coulter from Chicago in 1936 and they became the backbone of the next great Rangers team, which lost a five game Final to Detroit in 1937. Three seasons later, Boucher succeeded Patrick as coach and the Rangers won the Cup again. The 1940 Rangers were led by the dangerous line of Hall of Famer Neil Colville, his brother Mac and Alex Shibicky. Hall of Famer Bryan Hextall, Phil Watson, Dutch Hiller, Alf Pike, Clint Smith, Kilby MacDonald and Lester's son Lynn gave Boucher great depth up front. Lester's other son Muzz helped form a solid defense corps with captain Coulter, Babe Pratt and Ott Heller. Hextall's overtime goal against Toronto in Game Six of the 1940 Finals was the decisive tally in the Rangers third Cup championship.

Two years later, the Rangers finished atop the league with the Watson-Patrick-Hextall line dominating league scoring. But World War II had already begun breaking up this collection of Ranger All-Stars. In the years that followed, the club struggled. In the next 13 seasons, the club only made the playoffs twice. Still the Rangers featured outstanding individual talents. Buddy O'Connor became the first Ranger to win the Hart Trophy as NHL MVP in 1947-48 and goalie Chuck Rayner won the Hart in 1949-50, the year the Rangers lost a seven game overtime Stanley Cup Final to the Red Wings. Edgar Laprade, Hy Buller and Bones Raleigh were standouts in the late Forties and early Fifties.

In the 1950s, a fertile farm system and some deft trades improved the team's fortunes. Hall of Famers Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice, Harry Howell, Bill Gadsby and Gump Worsley, along with Camille Henry, Andy Hebenton and "Leapin' Louie" Fontinato helped the team back into the playoffs in mid-decade. Bathgate, who became the club's captain and all-time leading scorer, won the Hart Trophy for the 1958-59 season. Hebenton played 560 consecutive games as a Ranger and Howell became recognized as one of hockey's best defensemen and was awarded the Norris Trophy in 1966-67.

A Rangers Renaissance began in 1960s, directed by coach and general manager Emile Francis. Beginning in 1966-67, the club made the playoffs nine consecutive seasons, the only NHL team of the period to accomplish that feat. Led by Rod Gilbert, who eclipsed Bathgate's club scoring records, and his linemates Jean Ratelle and Vic Hadfield, the Rangers were again an NHL powerhouse. All three became All-Stars during the period as did defenseman Brad Park and goalie Ed Giacomin. Reliable two-way players like Pete Stemkowski, Steve Vickers and Walt Tkaczuk helped round out the team. In 1971-72, Hadfield became the first Ranger to score 50 goals in a season and that year the Rangers faced Boston in the Stanley Cup Finals, losing a tough six-game series.

Following a two-year absence from post-season play in the mid-1970s, a new group of Rangers emerged led by stars Anders Hedberg, Ulf Nilsson, Barry Beck, Ron Greschner, Phil Esposito, John Davidson, and the Maloney brothers, Dave and Don. The Rangers dramatically marched to the Stanley Cup Finals in 1979, defeating their new arch-rivals, New York Islanders in the semi-finals before bowing to the Montreal Canadiens in a five game Final. While the Rangers would not reach the Finals again until 1994, they built a good team and it took the best teams to defeat them. Beginning in 1979, the clubs that eliminated the Rangers in the playoffs over each of the next nine seasons all went to the Finals or won the Stanley Cup.

The hiring of Neil Smith as general manager of the Rangers in 1989 began the process which led to the 1994 Stanley Cup championship. Smith acquired center Mark Messier from Edmonton for the 1991-92 season and Messier led the club to the top of the league and was recognized for his efforts by winning the Hart Trophy that season. Through timely trades, keen drafting and opportunistic free agent signings, Smith pieced together as talented a club the Rangers ever had.

After finishing atop the NHL during the 1993-94 regular season, the Rangers defeated the New York Islanders and Washington Capitals in the first two playoff rounds, then came from behind to win the Eastern Conference championship on Mark Messier's third period hat trick in Game Six and Stephane Matteau's double overtime goal in Game Seven against the New Jersey Devils. They defeated the Vancouver Canucks in another seven game thriller, with captain Mark Messier scoring the Stanley Cup-winning goal.

The Rangers' fourth Cup and the numerous franchise records set that season continued a long, distinguished history marked by outstanding team and individual performances. In the past six years, those performances have included three division titles and two Presidents' Trophy seasons for the NHL's best regular season record. The emergence of new superstars like Brian Leetch, Mike Richter and Adam Graves, who broke Hadfield's 50 goal mark in 1993-94, as well as a wealth of potential star players make the future of the New York Rangers brighter than ever.

Chase Middle Market

"No matter how good you are... you need to know the team is behind you."

Sandlot or Major League, it takes a team to win a ballgame.

In baseball, business, or banking – it takes a team to reach the top. Individual effort goes a long way. But no matter how good you are, you have to trust the team behind you. To follow through. To get the job done. To get the job done right.

That's the kind of teamplayer you'll find at Chase. We're the leading bank for business because, like you, we play hard. We play to win. And we love the game.

Get the best team in banking for your business. Get The Chase Manhattan Bank.
